ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAMS.

HAVAS AGENCY

Copenhagen 24th.

The Danish House of Deputies (Folkesthing) has voted a Motion of Censure on Minister Estrup for his recent decree supending liberty of the Press.

London 24th.

A telegram from Lord Dufferin, viceroy of India, announces that latest intelligence from Mandalay advises the despoiling and looting of several important places in Burmah by a number of tribes.

Also, that they are committing excesses of all kinds, and that amongst many victims of assassination were numbered some Europeans and Missionaries.

PRESS TELEGRAMS

Venice, 22nd—Fifty cases of cholera reported, of which twelve proved fatal. Great alarm and panic.

London, 22nd—Lord Rosebery supports Mr. Gladstone's project for Home Rule in Ireland, provided the union with Great Britain be maintained.

The Irish leader has convoked a meeting for the 1st of January, to consider the attitude to be taken in the coming Parliament. Mr. Herbert Gladstone, the son of the ex-Premier, and Member of Parliament, expresses his belief that the Tories will have nothing more to do with the Parnellites, now that they have made them subservient to their electoral designs.

The Orangemen have issued a manifesto calling upon the inhabitants to oppose the Parnellites, whose policy if successful, will involve the country in the horrors of a civil war.

The programme advocated by the Union is Home Rule in Ireland on a liberal basis, with representation in Parliament by a secretary and sub-secretary, to be elected by the Irish members.

London, 22nd—Advices from Spain report a conspiracy discovered in Tarragona for the overthrow of the Royal Family and proclamation of a Republic. The greatest reserve maintained by Government.

Paris 22nd—The Republique Française contradicts the report that Jules Ferry was about to take over that paper.

Montevideo, 24th

It is rumored the meeting to-morrow will decide the question of the official candidature.

The Elbe entered to-day.

The papers contain articles on Argentine politics.

Political circles agitated on the eve of the great meeting. Weather has been rather cold.

CHRISTMAS.

To each and all of our esteemed subscribers we beg to offer the compliments of the season—a merry Christmas and many happy returns of the day. To our Argentine friends, and especially our colleagues of the press, we stretch forward the hand of good-fellowship, hoping that we may always be as good friends as at present. To the countries on both sides of the River Plate we give our warmest wishes for their welfare and progress; and to our friends beyond the Atlantic we send a kindly greeting to assure them that the scenes of our youth in the busy towns of England, or amid the romantic lakes of Scotland, or the green hills of Erin, are still—

"Though lost to sight, to memory dear."

THE "GRANO MALO."

Our native colleagues have at last taken up the important question of the "grano malo" disease which makes such havoc in the herds of the north and west of Buenos Aires, in Santa Fé and in Entre Rios, and it is to be hoped that their remarks will carry sufficient weight to lead to the adoption of some prophylactic measures that may diminish the yearly losses of our cattle-men. This dreadful disease has been known in the country for many years, but its intensity varies considerably, and its spread and prevention are still a great puzzle to farmers. Its chief laboratory, we may say, is in the province of Entre Rios where it constantly rages. Its action is so rapid that animals attacked die in a few hours. The province of Santa Fé is not free from this plague, but it is less severe than in Entre Rios. In the province of Buenos Aires the "grano malo" only affects the northern and western districts, those of the south being comparatively free from the disease. There have been seasons when farmers in this province lost very heavily, the disease being very contagious and spreading very rapidly.

Increased attention has been paid to the ravages of the "grano malo" of late, as some of our leading breeders have lost some fine blood-stock through the disease. Imported animals had escaped the contagion for many years, but now that they are succumbing both in this province and in Entre Rios it is high time to call the attention of the Government to the gravity of the case, through the columns of the press, and ventilate the matter as much as possible.

One of the most recent cases of "grano malo," affecting imported cattle, happened this month at Mr. Frias's great establishment. One of his finest bulls, a splendid animal that had carried off a dozen first-prizes in England and cost Mr Frias several thousand guineas, was attacked one morning by splenic apoplexy, a form of "grano malo", and carried off at noon. The disease spread in the stalls and two more fine animals succumbed; its rapid progress was arrested by a well-known veterinary surgeon, who cleared the stalls, disinfected and fumigated the whole establishment and thereby saved all the other animals. It is a serious matter to see a disease of this kind carry off in two days three animals that represent the value of several "rodeos" of "criollo" stock, and it is no wonder if farmers are complaining through the columns of the press of the neglect and indifference of the local Governments. Some party called attention to the matter years ago, and Messrs Nield & Co. actually brought out a veterinary surgeon and entered into correspondence with the celebrated Mr. Pasteur on the subject. A committee "ad hoc" was appointed by the Buenos Ayres Government, but so far it has failed to adopt any measures to prevent the spread of the disease. After the failure of the first attempt, Messrs Nield continued their efforts, brought out another veterinary surgeon, connected with Mr. Pasteur, but the final results of these studies have not yet been published. Meantime cattle are dying by hundreds, and the finest stock in the country is succumbing to a disease that in all probability can be prevented by timely inoculation.

The "grano malo" is a microbe and its affinity or analogy with carbuncle is so great that scientific men think that they are one and the same disease. Mr. Pasteur has found the prophylactic virus against carbuncle, which although supposed to be of the same ilk as "grano malo" is far more malignant. At all events the virus of the carbuncle, prepared by Pasteur, might be tried on animals in the Plate, surrounded by all such precautionary measures rendered necessary to prevent the introduction of a new disease.

After dwelling at length on the fatal effects of "grano malo" on cattle, it would be philantrophic to call attention to the fact that man is not free from the contagion. The men who skin the diseased carcasses often catch the disease which is very malignant although it appears under a different form. And this contagion is far more prevalent than people believe; mosquitoes even carry the virus from the animal to man. If the Government do not care about the animals, let it at least study the matter for the sake of the inhabitants. We are promised an important paper on this subject by a leading veterinary surgeon, and his remarks will be read with interest, as they will probably throw some new light on the matter.

The Elbe's Mails.

London, Nov. 24th.

From Min-hla our Correspondent telegraphs a full description of the taking of the forts at that place on both sides of the Irrawaddy. Our troops, he says, had to encounter difficulties from the moment of landing. When on shore they had some severe fighting in the jungle to the north and east of the town, but after the capture of their central post the Burmese fled in all directions. After the the town had been taken, a mine was exploded by some concealed Italians.

A telegram despatched from Sofia at three o'clock yesterday afternoon reports the receipt of a despatch stating that Widdin had been bombarded by the Servians, and was in flames.

Prince Alexander has refused to accede to the proposal for an armistice. He had received from the Porte an assurance that the Imperial Government would not allow a single point of the frontier to be changed, even as a consequence of the present conflict. In reply, the Prince declined to have anything to do with an armistice until the Servians had completely evacuated Bulgaria, nor to accept any conclusion of peace until he was himself on the enemy's territory.

Count Munster, the German Ambassador, who is proceeding to Paris, was entertained last night at a farewell banquet given to him by the German residents in London.

Mr. Gladstone yesterday formally transferred to the Lord Provost and Town Council of Edinburgh the Market Cross of that City, which has been restored by the right hon. gentleman Immediately after the ceremony the Heralds and Pursuivants appeared at the Cross and proclaimed the Dissolution of Parliament. In the Council Chambers, in reply to a complimentary address, Mr. Gladstone said it was a peculiar pleasure to him to have been concerned in a project which was dear to the heart of Sir Walter Scott. He supposed it might have been from the close associations of the Cross with the Stuarts that the magistrates in 1756 were led to destroy the Cross of that day. It was a grievous mistake, however, to make so serious a breach in the historical traditions of Scotland; and he expressed his indebtedness to Lord Rosrbery and Mr Mitford, whose suggestions had enabled him thus to mark his connection with the northern capital.

Lord Hartington, speaking in Lancashire last night, referred to the question of free education. The noble Lord said he was still unable to give a definite opinion on the merits of the proposal, but he approved of an inquiry with a view to find a convenient method of payment which would press less heavily on the great mass of the people than did the present system.

Mr. Chamberlain, speaking at Birmingham last evening in favour of Mr. Alderman Kenrick's candidature, dwelt upon the miseries which prevailed under the system of Protection, and said if Protection was now allowed upon a single article of manufacture, it would be followed by a strong effort to revive the duties upon food. He entreated the electors to give no favour to those who would restore Protection under the guise of "Fair Trade."

Four members were yesterday returned un-opposed to the new House of Commons. Nominations in a large number of boroughs and in a few county constituencies took place yesterday. The polling in two Metropolitan boroughs—Chelsea and Strand—and in forty provincial boroughs will take place to-day.

Lord Salisbury presided at the house dinner of the St. Stephen's Club last evening. He repudiated the interpretation which Mr. Gladstone had put upon an article of his written a year ago, and said he looked with triumphant hope to the events of the next ten days. But his friends must not, on that account, slacken their exertions. Every art had been employed to draw away the attention of the electors from the blunders and misdeeds of the late Government. In the topics which the Liberal Leaders had selected wherewith to beguile the voters, it was inaccurate to say that the Statute of George III. about allotments contained a single word about compulsory purchase. Mr. Chamberlain had made a mistake in introducing Disestablishment as an object of the future, and his colleagues had since been busily occupied in whittling away his theories. Mr. Gladstone had gone to Scotland to secure the unity of the Liberal Party; but as they were not agreed upon a set of opinions, they were not a Party, and an exhortation to unity was an exhortation to hypocrisy. The convictions of the Conservatives being genuine, they were therefore united.

A fire broke out at Cheltenham yesterday in a house in which a woman and her three children were living. They were all burnt to death.

William Roberts, a labourer, was yesterday sentenced by the Hampton Magistrates to imprisonment for three months, with hard labour, for having concealed himself in the roof of the dining-hall of the West London District Schools, at Ashford. The Prisoner admitted that he had lived, off and on, for serval years in the roof, and that he had chiefly subsisted on the crumbs which fell from the officers' table.

Two of the three men charged with the burglary at Netherby and the murder of a police-constable were committed for trial by the Carlisle Magistrates yesterday. The Solicitor defending them complained of their being in irons; but the Magistrates said they had nothing to do with that matter.

Two men named Williams and Hill were yesterday executed at Hereford for the murder of Ann Dickson at Weobely.

The trial of Mrs. Weldon's action for slander and trespass against Sir Henry de Bathe terminated yesterday in a verndict for the Plaintiff with one thousand pounds damages, for which the Lord Chief Justice gave judgment

A clerk named Bantin yesterday recovered seventy-five pounds damages from the London Road Car Company, for injury done to his arm by one of the Company's vehicles, opposite the Law Courts.

An application was yesterday made on behalf of Mr A Henderson, of the Avenue Theatre, to restrain Mr Arthur W Roberts from performing at the Gaiety Theatre in the play of Billee Taylor. Having heard the arguments upon the agreement between the parties, Mr Justice Pearson held that Mr Roberts was entitled to act in the play up to the 12th of next month; but said if the matter came before him after that date he should consider it on new grounds.

William Johnson, a butler, in the service of Lord Dorchester, and a man named Edwards were charged at the Marlborough street Police-court yesterday with stealing valuable articles, the property of his Lordship, and Edmond Tydeman was charged with complicity with the other Prisoners. The latter was discharged, and Johnson and Edwards was sentenced to terms of hard labour.

William and Louisa Withey, husband and wife, were brought up on remand, at the Lambeth Police-court yesterday, charged on suspicion of having murdered a male child about a year old. The evidence was formal, and the Prisoners were again remanded.

Money was again lower in price yesterday, so that call loans were procurable for 1 per cent and discounts for 2¼ per cent. Prices were good on the Stock Exchange for Government Stocks only. Railway Securities, whether Home or American, were flat, and left off with no recovery, the United States being quite demoralised. Consols gained ⅛, and closed at 100⅝ ¾ for money. The net result of the day's movements of gold at the Bank was an influx of £32,000.

THE ACADEMIA BRITANICA.

Shorn of King Frost and more than half the mystic attractions of the mistletoe in a land where holly and ivy are exotics, Old Christmas loses half its charm, and might indeed pass unheeded by many of us were it not for the annual examinations at the various Colleges throughout the city. Here as in old England the great Christian festival is hailed with joy by thousands of children of both sexes, who, if deprived of snowballing and plum-pudding, can at least "throw learning to the dogs" and take to kiteflying for a few weeks. Most of our readers would prefer to see the birth of our Saviour celebrated in a more solemn manner, but when we observe the wretched way that Easter is ushered in (the masked-ball iniquity often lasting through the entire Lent) religious enthusiasm sinks within us, and we content ourselves with the innocent tribute of so many pure young hearts just let loose from school.

We are led into this train of thought by the display at the Academia Britanica last week. For close on a quarter of a century Mr. Bird has been patiently training youth in the way it should go, and has the satisfaction to see many of his earliest disciples attain high positions in every walk of life, whilst some of his most successful opponents were formed under his own eye. Unlike other masters, Mr. Bird never tires of his own work, and except when commissioned by Dr. Avellaneda's Government to go to Europe, has neither sought rest nor relaxation of any kind during that extended period. Nevertheless his energies do not flag, for the examinations of 1885 will compare favorably with any previous effort. The boys being seated in the large Study-hall in Calle Belgrano, under the direction of Mr. Williams, Mr. Gormley, Herr Guttzeit and the other professors, proceedings were commenced by Master Alvaro Livingston, who delivered the inaugural address in a tone and gesture worthy of all praise. "La Presencia de Dios" was bravely rendered by a promising young philosopher of 7 years, Pedro de Nicolas. Then followed the examinations in the English and Spanish languages, in which even the smallest boys displayed considerable proficiency. "The Blind Boy," by Daniel Williams, and "El Ombu," by D. Goyo Soler's little son Samuel, were real treats, but the debate between Cato and Decius by Masters Auseagasti and Udaondo, although shewing careful training, was too ambitious a flight for boys of their tender age. It was not bad pronunciation, but simply non-comprehension of the thrilling deeds that they could not be expected to understand (much less render faithfully) even if spoken in their mother tongue.

Mr. Bird will, we feel certain, allow us, in the interests of truth and friendship, to offer him this one word of advice whilst recording publicly our otherwise unqualified admiration of his labors and successes during the past, together with a sincere hope for the welfare of his school in the future.

In geography and arithmetic most of the lads were well up to the mark, and there was positively no puzzling them in these most useful of studies for this commercial age but we thought them weak in history and the sciences, a fact which may be accounted for by reason of the more advanced pupils having to render their examinations before the board of the National College.

General Mansilla's son spoke French with a faultless accent, and was closely seconded by Edw. Livingston, Alejandro Bassillon, Molino and other graduates of the Academy.

The son of Sr. Velarde, Bolivian Minister to the Court of San Cristobal, proved himself an apt pupil in mathematics, grammar and geography.

Carlos de los Carreras, as 'the little Merchant' astonished all by his faultless rendering of our tongue—yet he was never a day of his life in England, Ireland, or even old Scotland.

We cannot conclude this short notice without a word to parents, many of whom inspired by the noblest desires for the welfare and advancement of their children neglect to help the master in his heavy task. In plain words the education of a child depends, in 9 cases out of 10, quite as much on what he learns at home as at school, and yet the entire weight is just as often left solely on the master; which is not fair or just to either party.

HISTORY OF PRICES.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

All statisticians will welcome the publication of "The History of Prices Since the Year 1850" (Longmans, Green, and Co.), from the pen of so high an authority as Mr. Michael G. Mulhall, author of "The Balance Sheet of the World" and other important statistical works. Thirty years have elapsed since the last issue of Tooke and Newmarsh's 'History of Prices,' and it was quite time that a review of the prices of the period should appear, as it is obvious that the longer the period that is allowed to elapse before the collection of the information necessary for a work of the kind, the less accurate are its records likely to be.

Mr. Mulhall commences with a review of variations of price-level in Great Britain and other countries. As compared with 100 for 1841-50, the general price-level for Great Britain is put at 91·5, and for the world at 94·7. These percentages are arrived at by comparing the actual total of trade with the sums which the same quantities of merchandise would have amounted to at the prices of previous periods. British trade for 1881-4 is valued at £644,000,000, and at the prices of 1841-50 the total would have been £704,000,000. Similarly, the products of the world for 1881-4 are valued at £4,910,000,000, whereas at the prices of 1881-50 the total would have been £5,186,000,000. It is further shown that the price-level for the world for 1881-4 was about 15 per cent. lower than it was for the decade ending with 1870—that is, 17s. in 1881-4 would buy as much as 20s. would have bought at the earlier period. This fall in prices is regarded by the author as generally advantageous, and especially so to Great Britain. "Far from deploring this lower scale of prices," he says, "we must regard it as a great blessing, the result of improved machinery, cheaper cost of production, and economy in freight. Nor has it occasioned any loss to Great Britain; for the detailed tables in Appendix show that the price-level of our imports in 1881-4 is 30 per cent. less than in 1861-70, whereas that of our exports has fallen only 25 per cent; and as we import much more than we export, the difference in price-level is a gain to this country. No wonder, therefore, that althought prices have declined, the volume of our trade expands, and the public wealth increases."

Mr Mulhall does not give any encouragement to bi-metallists, nor to those who believe the depreciation of prices to be due to an appreciation of gold. "The best authorities (except Jevons," he says, "maintain that the supply of the precious metals has no perceptible effect on prices, a fact which the experience of the last thirty years fully confirms." In 1850, he goes on to explain, the world possessed a much smaller amount of gold and silver, coined and uncoined, than at present. The aggregate, measured in millions sterling, has risen 50 per cent. and prices have fallen only 5 per cent. As to the decline in the value of silver, he attributes it to its diminished use in manufactures, electro-plate having in great measured superseded it; and he states that the stock of gold, coined and uncoined, is nearly two-and-a-half times what it was in 1850, while that of silver has risen only 35 per cent. At the conclusion of his chapter on the precious metals Mr. Mulhall says that the principal facts to be remembered in connection therewith are these:—1. That the world has now three and three-quarter times as much gold coin as in 1850. 2. That only 48 per cent. of the gold above ground is used for coin. 3. That silver now forms only 41 per cent of coined money, whereas it was 60 per cent. in 1850. 4. That the world now uses 70 per cent more silver money than in 1850. 5. That the actual stock of silver is only nineteen times the weight of the stock ot gold, whereas it was thirty-two times in 1850. 6. That if the metals were regulated in value by the existing stocks, the price of silver should now be 102 pence per ounce instead of 49 pence. 7. That since 1860 India and China have absorbed a little more than the total product of the silver mines of the world. 8. That the fall in silver is because plate has gone out of fashion. 9. That sea-borne gold and silver are now less than 9 per cent. of the value of merchandise exchanged, against 12 per cent. in 1861-65. 10. That prices are not regulated or even affected by the amount of metallic money per inhabitant, and that we make 20 shillings of coin in Great Britain do as much trade as 85 shillings in France, 40 in Italy, 58 in the United States, or 100 in Spain. Unless these figures can be shown to be incorrect, Bimetallists will find them rather awkward, and we shall look with interest for replies from some of the best authorities among them. On the other hand, we presume that Mr. Mulhall would not dispute the fact that the limitation of the coinage of silver affects its value, or that the low exchange value of silver affects prices in India.

Our friends in New Zealand and South Australia may take some little comfort from what Mr Mulhall says of the public debt of a country. It is only to be deplored, he thinks, when wasted by fraudulent and incompetent ministers, or sunk in chemical undertakings, or squandered in gunpowder. Nothing can be more absurd, in his opinion, than the method of measuring taxation and debt by the number of shillings per inhabitant, the proper way being to compare these burdens with the earnings and capital of each country; but even after this method the ratio of taxation in all Australia to earnings is 17·3, and that of debt to wealth is 20·2, which are higher than the rates for any countries enumerated in a list given in the book except Spain and Italy. In the ratio of taxation to earnings Great Britain stands at 7·1 per cent, as compared with 14·7 for France, 12·1 for Germany, 18 for Italy, 10 for Spain, 13 for Belgium, 10·8 for Russia, 9·6 for Holland, 11·5 for all Europe, 4·9 for the United States, and 6 for Canada. We strongly advise all "Fair Traders" to read the chapter on "Commerce," in which they will find a great mauy facts which may tend to their enlightenment. We have space for only two or three. Since 1841-50 the British tariff has been reduced four fifths. while that of the United States is now relatively 40 per cent. higher. "As a natural result," Mr Mulhall says, "the trade per inhabitant of the United Kingdom has risen 228 per cent. against 123 per cent. in the United States". Again:—"It is a striking commentary on the fiscal system of the United States that although their population has doubled in the last twenty-five years, they hold a smaller share of the trade of the world than in 1860." It is further shown that the balance of trade is almost even in poor countries like Spain and Russia, and that there is a large excess of imports in rich countries. To our American cousins this passage may be particularly commended:—"All import duties over 10 per cent. are, as a rule, barbarous." From a fiscal point of view the go-ahead Yankee is still a barbarian, according to Mr Mulhall. He adds:—"Where some nations, such as Brazil, United States, Argentine Republic, and Chili levy duties collectively exceeding 20 per cent., and in some of these countries reaching 40 per cent. of the total value of import trade, an artificial high level of prices is created most injurious to such countries." In another chapter he shows that high earnings in the United States are by no means proportionately advantageous to the recipients, as a dollar in their country goes little if any further than a florin in England. "People who long for high prices long for "a fool's paradise, where everybody seems to earn more, but is really no better off."

In this little book of 120 pages, crammed with information as clearly stated as it is condensed, we find so much to attract our attention that we must leave the chapters dealing with agriculture and the food supply for future comment; but we cannot conclude this article without expressing our admiration of the masterly manner in which Mr Mulhall has marshalled and explained his figures, and the lucid style in which he has stated his conclusions. The book is a model of a statistical work. —Mark Lane Express.

MR. PEÑA'S PAMPHLET.

Mr. David Peña, Secretary of Dr. Bernardo de Irigoyen, has conferred a favor on the great Irigoyenista party by publishing, in a neat and well-printed pamphlet, the most minute details of the political trip made to the Interior by the above Presidential candidate.

To those who interest themselves in politics, and to the many partizans of Dr. Irigoyen, this work must prove invaluable. It is written in a clear, concise style, and every detail of this electoral campaign is portrayed so well that one in reading the work would imagine himself, like the author, a "compañero de viage."

The only object of the work is politics, and the writer wholly confines himself to this object. Did he but give us a description of the places he visited, the people he met with and their manners and customs, a great deal of interest would have been added to the work.

The author can flatter himself that his work is a success: the object for which he undertook it has been accomplished, and well accomplished. Every politician, no matter of what grade or colour, will read it with avidity; but stepping outside of this the work has no merit, and is a complete blank to anyone who reads the book with the object of acquiring knowledge about the interior of the Argentine Republic.

What interesting chapters could have been written on Salta, Catamarca and Jujuy, places we hear of every day, yet so little known to most of us. There was ample food for a volume four times the size of the present one, did the author so wish, but the Bedouins of Catamarca, the desert plains of Jujuy and the interesting customs and habits of the people in the many places he visited were ruthlessly disregarded, and his one object—politics—comprising meetings, conferences and speeches, fill this pamphlet from cover to cover.

His work may have been a labour of love, but to the general reader, who looks for something beyond politics, the book will be of little interest.

PARIS LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent)

November 19th

Last year when the cooks struck, on the ground that they were 'underfed' in the hotels and restaurants, the public seemed to regard the matter as a practical joke. But it was truer than woman or an epitaph. Food, food everywhere, and not a bit to eat. The bakers are now going to strike for a kindred cause. They demand higher wages, so as to be able to buy bread for themselves and families. The bakery interest is in a very unsound condition; there are as many bakers in the daily bankrupt lists as publicans and 'financiers.'

Parisian bakers excel all others in the quality of their bread, and yet its processes of making seem to date almost from the time when Abraham commanded Sarah to knead fine meal and make cakes to give a morsel of bread to his three angel visitors. The bakers are the most inoffensive of citizens; like the butchers, they will never be found to figure in politica riots or revolutions. The baker's life passes away in silence; he works by night and sleeps by day. He is generally married, and his numerous family shows how he ignores Malthus. He leaves that Philosopher to recruit his adepts among the wealthy. Being only passing rich, on 5 fr. a day, he cannot enjoy the liberality of the new college tariff which allows the parents having five sons boarders in the establishment the fifth to pay nothing. That resembles the assistance rendered in early days by the pawnbroking institutions, which lent only to the rich.

The baker is a living anatomy; pale, thin, prematurely old, a martyr to rheumatism, and ever suffering from a grave-yard cough. He works in a cellar from seven in the evening till four in the morning, almost naked, and between a current of air, flowing from the street railings to the mouth of the fiery furnace. The work is so severe that no lad is taken as an apprentice till between 17 or 18; his life is worn out at fifty years, and I never heard of any insurance office accepting bakers' lives for any risk. Listen to the sigh and note the bead drops as he puddles at the dough. Each thud is a premature beat in his funeral march to the grave. No wonder that in early Rome slaves, aye and in chains too, were condemned to the kneading trough and flour mill, as penal punishment. In the fourth century in France so difficult was it to obtain men to make bread that the master-bakers established public houses near their work-shops to entice men inside, and when the visitors were muddled they were dropped through a trap door and made captive for life. It was a soldier who escaped divulged this Tour de Nesle. This may explain why the Romans insisted that the sons of bakers should become bakers.

The Paris baker is entitled daily to two pounds of bread, and in some cases a bottle of wine, for his thirst is the result of something more than insensible perspiration. He is a great smoker, prefers his humble fireside to a cafe. I do not think he has any literary taste, or that like retired shopkeepers he indulges in the extravagance of joining a party of five to subscribe for a one sous journal. He likes dominoes or a game of piquet. But he looks forward to May day when his guild fetes their patron Saint Honoré; he will go to hear Mass at St. Roch church, and in the evening take his wife and family to the trade ball. They will be arrayed like Solomon in all his glory, and won't they wind up at daylight with La Boulangere a des écus, the French Sir Roger de Coverley, and that no middle class bridal party would omit to dance like fakirs.

The Paris baker is very conservative: he will countenance no machinery in his trade, so keeps the latter a close borough. He still employs old leaven, to leaven the whole lump. Yeast is partly employed for fancy, little loaves, for Paris has as many different kinds as the Greeks, who had sixty two. Then citizens, under pain of knocking the republic on the head, must have their morning roll to dip into their coffee and milk, just as the Romans had a special loaf for eating with oysters and rusks, to dip into honey and milk. It has been suggested that in life and health we should proceed on trust as there is no knowing the intentions of the cook or the baker.

In early times Parisians were obliged to bring their bread to be baked in the archbishop's oven, and later the abbeys established bake-houses, charging a small fee. And when citizens were conceded the right to bake their own bread, they had not the less to pay 'the oven tax.' During the siege of 1870-71 there were plenty of ovens, but the loaves Jules Ferry, as Mayor of Paris, turned out could not be baked because saw dust, chalk, bone-dust etc. replaced flour. However, man is an omniverous animal. Since—he compelled his country men to swallow Tonkin and Madagascar.

Every baker in Paris is bound to keep in stock a fixed quantity of flour, in case of interruption of food supplies. He must sell one class of bread by weight, all the other varieties are fancy products, and strange it is, only on these he turns his shent per shent. He prefers the hardest wheat, that of America, Australia and India to home-grown, because it is richer in gluten, and when turned into loaves retains more mixture and hence weighs heavier. In 1666 the Courts ruled that any baker employing the leaven of beer, jeopardised the public health and so could be hanged. This may explain why French bakers keep shy of the article still. The fact that bigamy was once a hanging matter keeps many now in the paths of domestic uprightness. The Gauls claim to have invented the hair sieve for sifting the flour, and others assert, they invented mill stones. Far beyond the carbonized souvenirs of Herculaneum, of the records of those excellent bakers the Egyptians, the Lake householders of Switzerland have bequeathed us not only plenty of their bannocks, but the evidence of how they cooked the pounded cereals. The Chinese cannot surpass that antiquity. Perhaps it was from these prehistoric members of the human family that the Romans borrowed the receipt for making their famous "aquatic" bread.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The R. M. S. Elbe arrived yesterday and her passengers land to-day. Amongst them are Dean Monsignor Dillon, the Revd. Father Flannery, Mr. O'Connor, the leading Uruguay saladerista, and others, whom we warmly welcome back to the Plate.

The political news at dinner yesterday was from Cordoba. Dr. Celman embraced Dr. Garcia when they met, and said he would be delighted to confer with General Mitre, and hoped he would stay in his house while in Cordoba. Nothing more.

We wish all our countrymen, adopted countrymen, colleagues and fellow-citizens of all nationalities a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. Judging from the enormous crowds of fashionables and unfashionables in the streets and shops for the past four nights the festival will be the merriest Buenos Aires has known for years. It has rained Christmas boxes in every house in town, and the shopkeepers have made a lot of money. The most popular presents for matrons in British circles is a box of Bennett's tea. One lady declared to us yesterday that she would sooner have such a C. B. than half the jewels in Fabre's shop. In very young lady circles it is unanimously conceded that wonderful dolls have never before been seen here as this year. The price of them is also something rather wonderful; nevertheless the sale has been enormous. The premium on gold has checked this year the sale of jewellery as presents.

The anual Exhibition at the English High School on Wednesday night was a most pleasing entertainment and greatly enjoyed by the large number of visitors present. The American Minister made the following very eloquent speech, which we feel great pleasure in publishing:—

"Young Ladies and Gentlemen of the Buenos Ayres English High School:

"I esteem it an honor of no mean degree to occupy the place assigned me here to night. This is a beautiful presence—the budding of manhood and womanhood, radiant with the dews of the morning sky; soon, very soon, to take the place of those lost in the shadows of the unknown valley. You have furnished strong proofs of merit But the awards of honor you will take home with you must not rob you of regrets for those who, under less favorable surroundings perhaps, have not quite kept pace with you here. Look out, lest vanquished now will be the victors of the coming year. Honors are capricious—excellence a jealous guide. Never rest with what you have, but press on and on to the end. As one having seen much of life, I say to you, and want you to remember my words, that amidst the boundless opportunities before you, you can accomplish almost anything you many desire to achieve. The men and women I have known, who have been the greatest, were the gentlest in childhood and the most patient in youth. There is but one road to excellence—the straight and narrow way of hard, patient, uncomplaining, self-sacrificing, heroic labor. No human being ever reached the front rank of moral and intellectual power in any other way.

There is no other way. There is nothing so successful as success. If you want it, struggle for it and it will be yours. This is a beautiful land. It is the seat of a coming empire of vast resources. I do not say this in any political sense, but in the sense of a grand development of the arts and the sciences, of literature, music, painting and poetry, those divine elements of civilization, which dry up the tears of humanity, and fill the world with love and joy and peace. Do you want to play a part in such a drama? If you do, keep your hearts pure and your thoughts elevated. Let Christianity chasten and education strengthen you, and you will become the stay of society, and the power and the strength of the state.

"His Excellency is "to the manor (of eloquence) born." This speech to the pupils of the English High School is one of the most beautiful, eloquent and appropriate we have ever heard addressed to youth; and all the boys and girls who heard it on Wednesday evening should cut it out of the STANDARD and keep it as a talisman whose charm will be even more potent when they are men and women that when they heard it delivered."

The cholera news yesterday from the Queen of the Adriatic made many people look unpleasantly queer. The disease must have been in the city for some time, but deliberately concealed by the authorities, as it is the pernicious custom to do in all European Continental countries. The dread visitor could hardly appear "de golpe" as the cablegram reports.

Two eggs that were locked up in a preserving box, invented by Dr Benatti, last Christmas were again exposed to view on Friday. The least said about them the better. Suffice it to say that even the hen that laid them would find great difficulty in recognising them, and it would be highly perilous to use them in making batter for plum-pudding.

The poor of the city are threatened with a great loss, thanks to our blessed Municipality, which is now six months in arrear in paying the accounts of those apothecaries who have undertaken to supply medicine free to the poor for account of the Corporation. This scandal gains additional point when it is remembered how the city money has been so shamefully squandered in increasing the salaries of the Municipal employees. Even the very "vasura" horses have had their allowance of forage largely increased; but this is the only augmentation of the lot that is worthy of approval.

Monsieur Auguste Martin, postal agent on board the French steamer Gironde, died on board on Tuesday. The remains were interred on Wednesday in the Recoleta Cemetery.

Two more Italian explorers have arrived. They intend to expose themselves to being eaten alive by the ferocious insects of the Chaco and Misiones. It is curious what some people consider pleasure.

It is a curious fact, but proved by figures, that Brazil pays her public school teachers higher than any other country. England comes second.

We're bitterly sorry to hear of the awfully sudden death of a Rosario newspaper addicted to politics. A stroke of conciliation on the brain finished it. Lots more sudden deaths of this kind may be looked for. The heavier the mortality the better.

A Galveston gentleman applied to a friend for information in regard to a certain man whom he wished to employ on his ranch. "Is he honest and reliable?" "I should say so. He is tried and trusty. He has been tried four times for stealing horses and he got clear every time," was the reply.

One hundred more squares are to be at once paved with stone, in order that they may be torn up again for the City Improvement Works. "That's the way the money goes, pop goes the weasel."

The commander of the 1st Battalion of the 1st Regiment declares that the story of a boy being mutilated to make him play the drum better is a pure invention. The boy was never a drummer at all, but in the ranks, and such an incorrigibly "bad lot" that he had to be turned out of the corps.

We have to thank Messrs Dewey & Co., the leading news agents and booksellers, for the Christmas number of the Graphic, the most gorgeous that enterprising paper has ever produced. "Up" and "Down", "The United Service," "Britannia and her Boys" and other beautiful engravings are worth their weight in gold.

Any estanciero requiring a copy of "Sheep and their Infirmities" will please apply to Moore & Tudor, or George Michaelsen, Montevideo, who will be most happy to supply them gratis.

The distribution of prizes at the "Colegio Pio IX. de Artes y Oficios" in Almagro took place yesterday in presence of a large assembly. This Buenos Ayrean Artisan School is a great credit to the perseverance of those good Salesian Fathers who teach over 300 little boys and bring them up to useful trades. A higher class also, for those boys whose parents pay, receives a good education.

The Oasis of San Luis says that the butchers there are worse than their London cousins, and charge 3 nats per arrobe for dog's meat, or meat only fit for dogs. We see splendid Christmas meat in the markets here.

The same thing has occurred with the Mendoza Exhibition as with the Bremen Show. The Buenos Ayres exhibitors cannot get back their precious articles. A Britisher near Mercedes is trying to get back a missing washing machine, and has given vent to such a strong opinion about the Industrial Club that that invaluable institution is like the old Woman in the Shoe—it does not know what to do with our justly incensed countryman. Like Bismarck, we don't care a brass penny for Exhibitions, and consider them played out.

There is about as much profit per acher for the dentist as for the farmer.

A young lady gave as a reason for not marrying a man, that he didn't suiter.

The National Telegraph lines appear to be in a chronic state of "mal estado." Twice within the week a subscriber has found the Parana line interrupted, and he had most urgent private news to wire.

IN SPITE

which has plunged the Argentine Government in an ocean of financial difficulties; in spite of the extraordinary premium in gold; the proprietors of the French Bazaars, the one situated at the corner of Calles Rivadavia and Esmeralda, the other at the angle formed by the Calles Rivadavia and Talcahuano (but in these two only!) have decided to sell, without increase of price.

All the articles, play-things etc. received for Christmas and New Year. They are led to make this advantageous concession.

1st—On account of their deposits in Calles Cangallo and Artes being full to the very top.

And 2nd because they wish to furnish another striking proof their successful efforts and energy to supply their numerous clientele with fresh, varied and unrivalled articles, at the most advantageous conditions for the public.

In 1876 and 1880, they offered the same advantages as they offer now. and they return their best thanks for the patronage received.

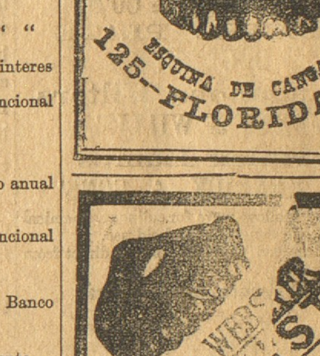

So make Haste before everything is gone?

Important Notice.

I hereby advise the public that I have established a Gymnasium Institute at Calle Florida 406, where I also apply the MASSAGE SYSTEM as studied and practiced at Dr. KELLGREN'S well known institute in London.

This system has given the most surprising results in curing chest and lung complaints, and all maladies caused by the kidneys and joints, and in any way connected with the nervous system. Thus the celebrated SYSTEM of MASSAGE is recommended as a certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, undeveloped muscles, paralysis, disorders in the digestion and in the circulation of the blood, etc., etc.

I have also a special class for the development of the body and muscles. Charge $15 m/n per month.

The following is the time-table I have arranged for the application of the Massage System:

For Gentlemen 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

For Ladies 12½ to 2 p.m.

Consultation hours—11,30 a m. to 12.30.

Patients can also make arrangements for the application of the Massage System at their own residences.

ON 'CHANGE

December 24th, 1885

Gold	141.40
Cedulas F	76
Cedulas G	80½

The market opened firmer to-day than ever, shewing a rise of 30 cents. At the same time most of the brokers look on it with suspicion and consider the quotation more artificial than anything else. The whole business to-day only amounted to 569,100, and Cedulas were completely neglected, only two small sales being posted up. The Banks still continue withdrawing their circulation and will not discount a cent. Several brokers applied at the Banks this morning, but the managers would not even look at their lists. Money consequently is extremely tight, and as high as 15 o/o was paid for it this morning for loans on National Bank shares.

Gold opened at 141.40, rose to 141.50, and closed firm with buyers at 141.40. Amount for cash 24,100. For Saturday 60,000 sold, opening at 141.30 and closing at 141.40. For end of month 255,000 disposed of, opening at 141.20, rising quickly to 141.50, and closing at 141.40, and for 31 t January 230,000 sold at prices between 141.60 and 141.70, closing at the opening price.

In Cedulas only two sales. In F 2,000 at 76, and G 6,200 at 80½, being the same prices as yesterday.

Mr Ping, so well and favorably known on the Bolsa, leaves for Europe in the first week of January.

Several estancieros taxed us to-day on 'Change and want to know when the line to Picassa will be opened to public service. The concessionaires promised to have the line open a month ago, yet up to the present, notwithstanding all the works have been finished for some time, they shew no signs of opening it for traffic. The estancieros relying on this promise have not sent in their produce by carts and the inconvenience they are put to in consequence is very considerable. We beg to call Mr Clarke's attention to the matter.

The R.M.S. Elbe arrived last night at Montevideo and came up this morning. Her mails will be delivered to-morrow. Monsignor Dean Dillon is on board greatly improved in health.

The Concordia, of the Clyde Line, also arrived in Montevideo from Liverpool. She brings dates to 29th Nov. The Cuvier, of the Lamport & Holt Line, is expected to-morrow. She has on board £200,000 for the Provincial Bank.

The President of the Provincial Bank has been authorised by the Government to collect from the National Government in payment of the loan, 2,400,000 m/n, advanced for the Riachuelo Works.

The steamer Nevera has brought over from Colonia 6,800 frozen capones to be transhipped to one of the Houston Line steamers in this port.

On London	33⅝d
On Paris	3.55fs.
On Antwerp	3.55
On Italy	3.56
On Germany	2.86 Reichsmark.

The following is a summary of operations effected this morning at the ring during official hours:—

Gold—
For cash 24,100 at 141.40-50-40
For Saturday 60,000 at 141.30-40
For Dec. 31st 255,000 at 141.20-30-40-50 to 141.40-50
For Jan. 31st 230,000 at 141.60-50-60-70-60
Sales, 569,100
Cedulas—
For cash F 2,000 at 76
For cash G 6,200 at 80½
Sales, 8,200

The sale of 2000 fan. new wheat on Montevideo is reported at 3.40

Messrs. Gowland and Hugh Brown have at last sold their land adjoining the Chacarita Cemetery, to the Municipality, 20 squares for 35,356 m/n. We suspect this is the very land where years ago the judges ordered the troops of the line to defend against the then Municipality that attempted to trespass on the property.

Two more sales of land in South Barracas, 6164 metres for 18,492 $m/n, and 6,925 metres for 15,850. We know of no place in this Republic where property has so much risen in value as in South Barracas 10,000; pats judiciously invested there a couple of years ago, to-day gives 100,000 $m/n.

The Provincial Government project to grant a 6 per cent guarantee to all meat freezing companies started in this province, is pronounced by all, as the most flagrant attempt on the part of the La Plata Government, to ruin the sheep-farming business of the whole province, by creating a tax on sheep. We have not room now to deal fully with this subject, nor yet to publish all that is said on 'Change against this infamous measure, but we can assure Governor D'Amico that he never attempted a more unpolitic or unpopular act, and that the weight of public opinion is so pronounced against it that there is not the slightest chance of its being passed. To put a tax, no matter how insignificant, on sheep, at a moment when Australians and New Zealanders are coming to settle amongst us, is to level the smiling province of B. Ayres to the rank of Cordoba or Entre Rios. People well understand the trickery of a measure that proposes to protect the sheep industry by taxing it, and the Government people of La Plata in proposing such a measure must imagine the sheep-farmers and estancieros a mere pack of fools. The great inducement to men of capital to invest in sheep-farming in this province was that it is a free industry, and that there is no tax on stock, but if the present bill be passed, sheep-farmers will have the "teniente" "alcaldes" shutting the flocks in the "corrales" before their owners' eyes, and counting the flocks in order to levy the tax. We trust that the estancieros with the Rural Society at their head will present a bold front against this iniquitous measure, and we return our best thanks to our talented colleague La Pampa, for its able article on the subject in this morning's issue.

The Municipality has at last concluded the business with Mr Travers for lighting up the Paseo Recoleta, Calle Callao and Calle Santa Fé, with the Incandescent Electric Light. Mr Travers, to have the use of the engines of the Water Works. This will prove a grand improvement for that part of the city.

Discount brokers report money very tight, 170,000 m/n lent on Nat. Bank shares, valued at 120, and certificates valued at 100, for 15 per cent interest.

The Elbe, owing to leaving Montevideo without her papers, was placed in quarantine until 11 a.m. to-morrow; her mails etc. came ashore.

A decree is about to be published ratifying the sale of 500 leagues National territory in Mendoza by Messrs Bustamante & Co. to Don Diego Alvear, one of the largest land sales on record.

Government has ordered that the wages and salaries of all parties contracted in Europe for the Andine Railway be paid in gold or its equivalent in paper.

Mr Perez del Cerro has been named by the Judge to the rather important commission as auctioneer to sell the properties of the late Mr Elortondo.

Exchange is superabundant and up to late this afternoon so few were the applications to the State Banks for bills that they have only so far drawn for the packet £4,000 stg. and 500,000 francs. We heard of fs.200,000 National Bank on Genoa passed this evening at 3.56.

Gold at afterhours ruled weak and sellers offering at 141.40. There was a great row at 4 o'clock, owing to the spreading rumor that Juarez Celman had resigned, and some brokers offered to sell gold at 130, conditioned that the news was true. Cedulas E rule firm, but F are very weak, 12,500 sold at 75⅝ and 20,000 G at 80¼.

The busiest places in town this afternoon were the toy shops. At the German's, in Calle Victoria, so great was the crowd that they had to post servants at the doors; the sales of toys represents a very large figure.

Mr Bowen, railway contractor, has left for Europe in the Italian steamer to perfect the sale and transfer of the Tramway, and will return to the R. Plate in a few months to follow up his lawsuit against the Government of B. Ayres for the concession of the Grand Central B. Ayres Railway. Respecting this long pending railway concession, we may summarise the facts. The Camara de Diputados approved the contract on August 9th, 1884, and the Senate approved it Februaay 24th, 1885. On February 26th Governor D'Amico returned the law to the Chambers, with a message asking them to provide him with means to pay the guarantee and to 'subsanar' the disappropriation law—matters with which the concessionaires have nothing to do. This message was generally considered a veto of the project, but the question arises, can a Government veto a contract to which it has previously lent its sanction, and can it veto its own project, for this was its own proper project signed, se led and delivered, and drawn out by the Escribano Mayor de Gobierno, signed by the Governor and both his Ministers and by Honoré & Bowen at the instigation of the Government, nothing remaining but the sanction of the Legislative Houses to make it law. We received to-day a pamphlet containing all the facts of the case, which is now before the Supreme Court, where the concessionaires have brought suit against the Government for the performance of the contract.

Engineer Pirovano, commissioned by the National Government to inspect the mole at San Nicolas, and report the cause of the catastrophe, arrived there last Sunday and has been hard at work ever since; very little light has been thrown on the matter yet, but it is probable that a new mole on the same system as the one in Campana will take the place of the old one.

The fine Colony Pihue, composed of 10 leagues lying in the Curumalan estate, shews tremendous progress. This colony was founded three years ago by Sr. Cabranettes with a few agricultural families. To-day there are 96 families counting 550 souls. Splendid galpones have been erected in the colony capable of storing 500,000 fanegas of wheat. 1,200 squares of wheat and 400 of maize are under cultivation this year. The potatoe crop has done best of all, giving 25,00 per cent.

Messrs Luro and Sons have just bought from Mr. Manuel Cobos 4,000 novillos for their Lujan Saladero. Price reserved.

The prolongation works of the North Western Uruguay Railway have already commenced. Mr. A Frewin has charge of the works, and has been sent out by Messrs Cutbill & Son, and Dr. Lungo the contractors. 12,000 tons of material are being shipped from London and the works are expected to be finished in 18 months.

The Rosario Custom House Receipts for 1885 amounted to 3,8,00,000 Nats. These figures are an eloquent proof of the progress of the place, as it is not very long ago when 800,000 would have been considered a splendid figure.

With reference to a paragraph in yesterday's issue that Messrs. W Samson & Co. had applied for packet privileges for the steamer Sir William Armstrong, they inform us that they applied for them on the 14th of April last, but up to this date their 'solicitud' has never been despatched. Meantime the Sir William Armstrong has been here and is away, and has since been to the Cape of Good Hope and back to London, and is now in Japan. There is certainly room for improvement in the mode of granting these so called "privileges", and it would seem to be incredible that it should be necessary to go through the following tramites and obtain signatures of Cabinet Ministers to a document which, if in England would be despatched by a subordinate official of the Custom House in a quarter of an hour. A solicitud has first to be presented at the "mesa de entradas" at the bureau of the Minister of War and Marine, from there it goes by and by to the Prefectura Maritima for "informes", from the Prefectura Maritima back to the War Office, from the War Office to the Office of Contribucion Directa, thence back to the War Office, thence once more to the Post Master General, and finally back to the War Office where it lies till His Excellency the Minister of War can find time to adhibit his signature. These tramites are rarely completed by the time that the steamer arrives here, therefore some more forms must be gone through to obtain "patente provisoria". A second Cabinet Minister has to be invoked, viz: the Minister of Hacienda, and after several sheets of paper have been used up, upon everyone of which there must be the "reposicion" of stamps and the sum of Six Hundred National Dollars paid, which is the main thing, the provisional certificate can generally be got after 21 days hard labour. A greater amount of trouble and circumlocution could hardly be conceived, and we feel sure the matter has only to be brought under the attention of His Excellency Don Carlos Pellegrini, the Minister of War and Marine, in order that some simpler method may be adopted. The present forms date from the time when steamers first began to ply here and they were accorded certain privileges as "packets", which would carry the correspondence. There are now swift mail packets almost daily, but notwithstanding the forms and tramites of 20 years ago have still to be gone through, and the solicitud of the steamship agent on behalf of an "outsider" has to be sent to the Post Master General for his "informe" whether the steamer has accommodation for carrying the mails of the Republic, &c., which is simply absurd.

General Remarks—
Steamers—
Freights have had an advance, and are the quotations now fs.20-22 for Antwerp and 19s to 20s for Liverpool, with prospects of further improvement.
Sailing vessels—
The number of charters made during the month do not show any improvement in the rates as expected, as the many arrivals of late could not but naturally make a press on the market, and the late and heavy rains have much delayed the crops, so few orders came to hand, but if the weather continues fine, the month coming will bring more activity in business.

The purser of the R.M.S. Elbe has favored us with the following:—
